

The Power of Learning

MESSAGE FROM GENERAL MANAGER ALAN LESLEY

Near the end of this month, all across our service territory, students who have completed their high school educations will receive their diplomas and march into their futures.

On behalf of the board and staff of CECA, I'd like to congratulate these young people on their accomplishments. One of our founding guidelines—Cooperative Principle No. 5: Education, Training and Information—stresses the value of supporting learning.

Electric cooperatives demonstrate that support in several ways. Annually, co-ops across Texas and the country offer students the chance to win scholarships. Typically, the money for these opportunities comes from unclaimed capital credits refunds. A state law passed in 1997 allows the use of these funds for educational purposes.

We are happy to invest in our youths' higher education, whether a student goes to a college, university, trade or technical school. The chance to win scholarships for the coming academic year has passed, but if you know of a student who would like a chance at this opportunity next year, please encourage him or her to apply next time. While we always manage to award the scholarships, we want to be sure every student has an equal chance.

We also facilitate education for students by annually sponsoring the Government-in-Action Youth Tour trip to Washington, D.C. On this trip, which occurs this year June 13-21, we send outstanding students from our service territory to the U.S. capital to learn more about our nation and electric cooperatives. This year, we are proud to send Cheyenne Gordon of Zephyr and Lucas Broussard of Early on the all-expense-paid journey that not only sheds light on how the government works, but also instills leadership skills that young people can use the rest of their lives.

Other ways we strengthen educational opportunities for young people include the CECA Leadership Conference for high school juniors, Ignite the Flight Portfolio Training for junior high and high school students, arcing demonstrations for all ages of students and bucket truck demonstrations for preschoolers.

Texas co-ops in recent years have also helped establish programs that give an advantage to people interested in learning the lineman profession. Co-ops, which are facing a shortage of trained linemen, benefit from this program directly. And the programs give individuals the chance to learn the skills they need to make a good living.

At CECA, we truly believe in the benefits of education. By supporting learning opportunities for our members and their children, we help empower the communities in which we live.

COOPERATIVE PRINCIPLE

Education, Training and Information

Cooperatives provide education and training for their members, elected representatives, managers and employees so they can contribute effectively to the development of their cooperatives. They inform the general public, particularly young people and opinion leaders, about the nature and benefits of cooperation.

The Next 15 Years 1956-70

Part V of Comanche Electric Cooperative History

BY SHIRLEY DUKES

The later years of the 1950s were a time of constant change in our country. This was when the baby boomer years began, when Elvis Presley was the King, and rock 'n' roll was the new craze. Martin Luther King Jr. led a nationwide resistance to racial segregation and discrimination and Dr. Seuss became popular. Gasoline was 24 cents per gallon, bacon was 60 cents per pound, and eggs were 28 cents per dozen. Toyota and Datsun cars went on sale in the U.S., and the Packard Company closed. And "Bonanza," the first weekly television series broadcast completely in color, premiered on NBC.

At Comanche County Electric Cooperative in 1956, the average pay was $1.42 per hour, and the average insurance payment per employee was $8 per month. Rates were set at 3.56 cents per kilowatt-hour, and sales were up almost 130,000 kWh from the previous year. The cooperative boasted 5,211 members and 2,798.28 miles of energized line.

As modern appliances began to change, CCECA realized that change must start here. Home appliances and water systems became much-coveted possessions, but finances many times became a barrier to the purchase. It was decided that the cooperative would provide funding at 5 percent for 24 months, with 10 percent down on monthly payment plans and 20 percent down on annual payment plans. In addition, the cooperative would furnish a 50-amp breaker box for new electric range installations free to members during a proposed Willie Wired-hand range campaign in April and May of that year. CCECA also offered to provide free electric ranges to community clubs at a cost of up to $100 each, for as long as they existed as an active club.

It was around this same time period that farmers in the area began purchasing irrigation equipment in an effort to improve the yield of their farms. This, too, was a strain on the budgets of farms and families. Once again, CCECA came to the rescue by financing irrigation equipment on a case-by-case basis. In addition, loans were made to members for a ripsaw in the amount of $4,400; several bulk milk tanks at varying costs; and a Herbagere machine at $5,140. But by July 1957, the available funds for these projects had been exhausted, and with the Rural Electric Administration having ruled that many of the items being financed were now ineligible for the program, the board voted to discontinue financing.

The lack of funding for the loan program did not deter CCECA from adhering to Cooperative Principle No. 7, Concern for Community. The cooperative purchased Farm Electrification textbooks for use in teaching vocational agriculture classes in high schools within the service territory at a cost of $300.

By mid-1957, business at the cooperative began to pick up at such a rate that CCECA once again went to the REA for funding. This time the amount applied for was $865,715, to be used for constructing approximately 72 miles of electric distribution line to connect 548 potential consumers within 5,000 feet of existing lines at an estimated cost of $328,800; for system improvements in the amount of $253,611, including increased capacity in 250 sets of service; engineering fees in the amount of $8,500; for reimbursement of general funds for construction already completed in the amount of $266,804; for purchase of additional general plant equipment items in the amount of $7,000; and legal fees in the amount of $1,000.

But by 1959, things had turned around again, and the cooperative faced a decrease in income. Growth of the system, while necessary, had depleted the reserves of the loan funds from the REA. Members who had received cooperative loans in previous years were having problems making payments. Because revenue from sale of electricity was estimated to fall short of the cash expenditures of the cooperative by approximately $32,000 over a period of two years and then continue for several years after that, members of the board determined that it was in the best interest of the cooperative to adopt a new rate schedule. The new rate schedule was complex, with seven different rates: 1) Farm and Home Service; 2) Farm and Home Service for All-Electric Homes; 3) Farm and Home Service with Storage-Type Water Heater; 4) Service to Schools and Community Halls; 5) Cathodic Protection of Pipelines; 6) Village Service (City of Mullin); 7) Commercial and Industrial Lighting and Power Service; and 8) Large Power Service.

During this time period, the Annual Meeting of the Membership was moved from Lake Eanes to the Comanche Indian Stadium. In 1958 and 1959 a beauty pageant was added to the agenda. Winners were: 1958, Lavonne Hall; 1959, Peggy Jean Ellis.

At the 1959 annual meeting, H.M. O'Brien addressed the membership, explaining that in any territory being served by a rural electric cooperative that becomes annexed to an incorporated town could receive no further connection by the cooperative. Several delegations of CCECA members had appeared before the Texas Legislature supporting corrective legislation. As no action had been taken by the Legislature at that time, a Legislative Committee was appointed to work with all members of the Legislature, other legislative committees and the members of the cooperative in an effort to obtain passage of this needed legislation. Appointed to the committee were: Irvin Dunn, Earl Floyd, Joe Weedon, Lee Starr, Monselle

O'Brien, Paul Roberts and Heston McBride. A resolution was passed by the cooperative, and a copy was sent to Texas Electric Cooperatives. In September 1961, TEC picked up on the cause and requested a written statement from each member cooperative seeking their opinions on continued efforts to secure "equal rights" legislation. A decision appears to have been made regarding this bill in 1963. However, the details of that decision are unclear today.

Between 1959 and 1961, the cooperative signed three new contracts. One was with the U.S. Air Force to provide power on Long Mountain; one was with the U.S. Army Engineer Division to provide service to the Proctor Reservoir; and the other was with Brazos Electric Power Cooperative to furnish a metering point in the vicinity of Byrd's Store on the north side of Lake Brownwood. This metering point would be near the load center for all of Lake Brownwood, Crosscut, Thrifty and May areas.

Also in 1961, CCECA sent a lineman crew to Victoria Electric Cooperative to aid in the restoration of service after heavy damage caused by Hurricane Carla.

In 1962, the cooperative's board of directors decided that it was important that younger generations knew and understood the rural electric program—its history, growth and development. Much cooperative history had been handed down by word of mouth and was contained only in the memory of the founders. Therefore, they resolved to award two scholarships of $250 each to be awarded for the best narrative histories of the cooperative. Today that program has grown to four $1,000 Scholarships for Excellence and two $1,000 Operation Round Up Scholarships.

In 1964, the board approved sending one girl and one boy on the Government-in-Action Youth Tour trip to Washington, D.C., at a cost of $225 per student. CECA still sends two area students on this all-expense-paid trip.

In 1965, Jim Eagan of TEC approached the board about the possibility of assisting with Texas partner Peru to help the country improve its standard of living and level of education, and in short, find ways to help them help themselves. He reported that a project was underway for the furnishing of small generators for use in remote villages where people had never had electricity. He further stated that this type of generator could be provided by TEC at a cost of approximately $350 plus $100 freight cost. Based on this information, the board voted to donate the sum of $450 to be used to purchase a generator. Today, CECA still assists developing countries in obtaining safe, reliable and affordable electricity through NRECA International.

The 1963 annual meeting marked the 25th anniversary of Comanche County Electric Cooperative. To celebrate this momentous occasion, R.E. Seay, the first president of the cooperative's board of directors, was invited to give a short speech on how far the cooperative had come since its inception. His speech was followed by the burning of the cooperative's first note, in the amount of $173,000.

As 1965 came to a close, CCECA began facing the same dilemma with the Eastland office building as it had with the Comanche building. The lease would soon be expiring and the need for more space was evident. A desirable lot was located on the western edge of Eastland and could be purchased for $2,750. In October 1965, a binder of $250 was paid to hold the lot pending REA approval of the purchase. By September 1966, the cooperative had hired an architect, Mr. Brown, and plans had been drawn up and presented to REA for approval. The building was completed and occupied sometime around the end of 1966 or early 1967.

In 1966, the Sidran Corporation began looking for a place to call home to a new garment manufacturing plant. Even though the plant itself would not be served by the cooperative, the board of directors saw the benefit to the community to have the plant settle in our county. In an effort to ensure that the plant development committee chose Comanche as the town of choice, CCECA made a substantial donation to the Comanche Industrial Foundation to aid in the location process.

In 1970, ERCOT (Electric Reliability Council of Texas) was formed to comply with North American Reliability Council requirements. It was staffed by two retired utility employees. Its purpose was to coordinate information as to the overall reliability of electric service in Texas. This information was, and still is, a necessary component to compliance with the FCC. CCECA joined the organization and named Manager W.J. Parks the official delegate to the council.

At the end of 1970, CCECA boasted 39 employees at an average salary of approximately $540 per month.

Do You Have an Unclaimed Check?

Numerous checks that were mailed to CECA members in payment of capital credits have been returned by the U.S. Postal Service as undeliverable. The last known addresses of these members were used for the mailing.

CECA would very much like to deliver these checks to their rightful owners. If you know the correct address or phone number of anyone listed on these pages, please have them call Nancy Isham at 1-800-915-2533 or email nisham@ceca.coop.
